High School Law Career Fall Conference
Friday, October 19, 2007
8 a.m. until 2:15 p.m.

North Carolina Central University, School of Law, Durham, NC

The North Carolina Bar Association invites your high school to participate in its High School Law Career Fall Conference to be held at NCCU School of Law, Durham, NC. The Minorities in the Profession Committee of the NCBA in cooperation with the NCBA Foundation Law-Related Education Advisory Committee will host this program on Friday, October 19, 2007.

The Law Career Conference is designed to introduce promising minority students to local judges and attorneys and provide them with information about careers in law. It is for high school students who have demonstrated leadership and/or academic potential. The program will spotlight various career options available to those possessing a law degree as well as inform students of the preparatory measures necessary to obtain a law degree. Presenters are expected to include members of the judiciary, practicing attorneys, lawyers in other professions, and law students. The format is designed to be informative and motivational.

High school students and counselors from school districts in the following counties are invited:

Caswell
Chapel Hill - Carrboro
Durham
Franklin
Granville
Orange
Person
Vance
Warren

For accommodations and planning purposes we will need your response by Friday, Oct. 5, 2007
