

Bar Exam Writing Clinic: Quick Tips to Improve Your Score

January 10, 2009

Elon University School of Law, Greensboro
1:30 p.m. – 5:30 p.m.

This is a FREE program.

Refreshments will be provided.

The North Carolina Bar Association's Minorities in the Profession Committee and Young Lawyers Division Bar Exam Committee announce the Bar Exam Writing Clinic to individuals sitting for the February North Carolina Bar Exam.

The focus of the clinic is to provide bar candidates with the opportunity to get practical information about the North Carolina Bar Exam. The Clinic will include the following:

- A representative from the North Carolina of Law Examiners who will cover topics such as how the bar exam questions are selected and scored.
- A panel of successful attorneys (some of whom were not successful the first time they took the exam) will share their stories of surviving and conquering the bar exam.
- Participants will also have the opportunity to take part in a portion of the program specifically directed to the essay questions, which will include tips on how bar candidates can improve their essay writing skills.
- There will also be a presentation on stress management.

You must make a reservation to attend the clinic.

To register for the clinic, please e-mail: jfink@ncbar.org.

Include your name, address, phone number and e-mail.

Maps and other information will be e-mailed to those registered by January 6th, 2009.
