DURHAM

One of the five men charged with murder let out of jail recently has been nabbed behind bars again after being charged with two felonies and a misdemeanor.

Ledarius Samuel, 19, was arrested Wednesday and charged with felony breaking and entering of a home on Kenmore Drive, a section of Chapel Hill that is in Durham County. He was also charged with possession of firearms by a felon, a felony, and carrying a concealed weapon, a misdemeanor.

In 2016 Samuel was convicted of felony conspiracy to commit murder, with murder let out of jail recently. He was convicted of a felony, and carrying a concealed weapon, a misdemeanor.

The prosecutor and a Sheriff’s Office official said they have no concerns about their handling of the case.

As with most investigations, the defense attorney will review evidence to try to get information on the death of a Durham teenager lost last week that he doesn’t know anything about.

Biggie, whose owner lives in Chapel Hill, takes center stage after winning the Toy Group recently at the Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show.

Biggie mainly lives with his handler, Zehatia Fuchs, in Pittsboro. A handler is the one who helps a dog around a show ring. Outside of the arena, a handler has the responsibility of caring for, feeding, petting and training a dog for shows.

Recently, Biggie made a local appearance in Pittsboro at the Chatham County Sheriff’s Office, “arrival with his entourage,” said Chatham County Sheriff’s Office spokeswoman Sara Pack. “He came in and people were like, ‘Oh, cute dog.’ Then someone was like, ‘Oh, that’s Biggie.”’

Chatham Deputy Rocky Smith said, “It’s not everyday that you see a guy from your hometown take home the big ticket.”

For a show dog, winning Best in Show at Westminster is like winning at Wimbledon, winning in the end. We are Getting into Daniel Platt’s old townhouse off of Interstate 540 in Apex couldn’t be easier.

Though the door is bolted and no one lives there anymore, the front door opens easily, with a click of a smartphone. Inside, the empty house is available for investigation – for long or as short as you need.

If you like what you see, you can even submit an offer on the townhouse on the spot.
